Employee Investigation and Surveillance

Employers instill trust in their employees when allowing them to use their computers for work-related tasks, but some employees abuse their computer privileges. With Net Spy Pro, employers can now monitor and record everything that occurs on their work computers.

Employees can no longer waste valuable company time by surfing the internet or playing games. Net Spy Pro can restrict access to any particular program or website to prevent this from occurring. Also, system administrators can view any employee's computer live as well as take control of that system remotely.
