I heard a very choice bit of gossip about B. Woodward. Rumor has it that he got involved in Plamegate as a favor to the White House, which called in all of its chits and said basically: we've helped you a lot over the years with your books etc. - time for you to help us. They wanted him to help get Libby out of the soup, by coming forward and showing that his source wasn't Libby, and, wasn't part of an anit-Wilson smear campaign. So, even though he'd bee underground all of that time, keeping out of it, trying not to get involved, not even telling Len, he suddenly says he "discovers" notebooks showing he got the first leak, and, then calls up the source, bizarrely enough for someone wanting to not be drawn in, and the source then turns himself into Fitzgerald.

What do you think?

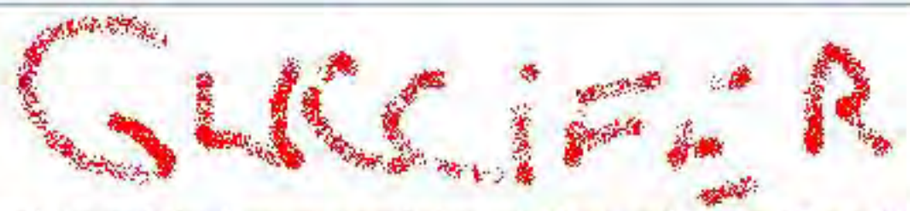
Google the following: "osama" + "cell phone" + "shelby"



Among other things, you will find an American Spectator article at http://www.spectator.org/dsp_article.asp?art_id=7519

The malefactor fingered by some for blabbing that we had tapped Osama's cell phone is one Richard Shelby, R., Senator from Alabama and in early 2001 the Chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Raises some questions, especially in view of President Bush's comments on Monday about this leak. Has the Senate Ethics Committee looked into this allegation? Has Shelby been cleared? Even investigated? What's the status of his security clearance?

This connection was mentioned in the Washington Post months ago, but no one seems to have picked up on it, so far.

Still writing Lincoln. Getting there. Been distracted by a family bat mitzvah for a week, etc. Everything takes time away. Nearly done, in a week or so, with first section on "The Education of Abraham Lincoln," taking him to 1850, about 175,000 words. Nobody but nobody has really done this right. When I finished the first draft I threw out the whole first section, having realized only at the end what I had done, and wrote again from scratch. So, nearly done with that. The rest involves work, but nothing arduous like that.
Hope you and Harry are well. And hope the new Newsweek/Beast thrives under your editorship. Much love, Sid

Sid,

Take a look. If you know any rich folks like the Rothchilds who might want to buy an estate on the ocean, you make money and get a permanent suite in the building.

Back to you when I hear from Flynt's guy.

Opportunity to acquire an iconic property designed by famed sculptor Robert Graham for his wife Anjelica Huston, located at 69 Windward Avenue in the heart of Venice, California's historic commercial district. We have recently negotiated a comparably favorable purchase price at $10.25M ($750 PSF), representing a 44% discount from original asking price of $18M, and a 24% discount on recent sales in the burgeoning Venice real estate market.

The property is being primed to house Venice Social Club -- the first of a new multi-city members club concept, including farm-to-table restaurant, craft cocktail bar, rotating art exhibitions, cultural programming, and luxury lodging. Anjelica Huston, along with a host of other influential Angelenos, has pledged full support of the club as an Advisory Board member, and the concept has received significant media attention in high profile news outlets such as New York Post, Vanity Fair, Curbed, Hollywood Reporter, and LA Weekly, among others.

Real Estate Investment Summary

Based upon base case underwriting, assuming a five-year hold and comparable $5.50 PSF NNN rents ($900K NOI), the total real estate investment of $6.2M equity (syndicate option available) yields a 13.5% unlevered IRR, 19.7% levered IRR / 1.7x multiple, and 8.8% stabilized yield on cost.

Upon purchase, the property will be converted from a work-live residence to a social club, including a restaurant, bar, art gallery, lodging, and event space. The anticipated entitlement period is 12 to 18 months -- enhancing the property's value by a projected 25 to 30%.

Sid,

Yesterday Germany agreed to lend Libya's rebel council 100 million euros for civil and humanitarian purposes.

Secondly, Michael Burleigh writes in yesterday's Times of London: "Although countries such as Kuwait have not supplied the funding they promised to the rebels, last week's decision to unblock $30 billion of Gadaffi's overseas assets to make them available to the transitional revolutionary government will enable a contrast between Benghazi, where normal life has resumed, with Tripoli, where nothing much works. So the optimists believe."

In addition, as you reported the head of Kuwait offered another contribution of $50 million.

The only hope for Democrats now: Bill Clinton.. He made the best , concise defense of Obama administration I have heard last night on Lehrer show:

Tell voters: I know you are not satisfied. But you gave the Republicans 8 years and they ran up the deficit and created a measly 2.5 million jobs. You have given us 21 months to turn around the worst economic situation since the Great Depression. Give us 4 years and then decide.

Whenever you read this, I just want you to know how much Jackie and I have been thinking of you and hoping for your good health and recovery. And many of your friends have reached out to express the same feeling, from Gene and Diane Lyons to Sean Wilentz, and Joe Conason to, yes, Cody and Derek (Strobe spent New Year's with Derek), and especially Carville, who was very upset (he's an emotional kind of guy, in case you hadn't noticed), and Begala, who was praying for you--and many others, Lynn Rothschild and Tina Brown (who wrote a very nice column with a good swipe at the evil bridge troll John Bolton), and on and on. (I've hooked up Sean, who flew to New Orleans for a few days, with James, who's giving him a tour of the music scene tomorrow, Thursday, and bringing him to the field of the Battle of NO. James is on the 200th anniversary commission and Sean, of course, is the Andrew Jackson expert.) So, very soon, Come Home, America!--at least for awhile; rest up, take care of yourself; and, then, a lot more ahead. Talk to you whenever. As Studs Terkel used to say at the end of his radio program, quoting Big Bill Broonzy, "Take it easy, but take it." Much love, Sid

Re: Petraeus/October Surprise

My operative theory on Petraeus scandal is that it became an October Surprise that failed. Forcing the scandal public and his resignation would have been the trifecta--leaks, Benghazi, then Petraeus--allowing Romney to argue that Obama had created a national security collapse. It would have overtaken the end of the campaign.

My thought is that Leahy should be in this now and that Feinstein should be made aware, if she is not already, of the October Surprise scenario.

I am absolutely furious at Carl Levin. This guy has completely let us down on the Graham-Levin-Kyl matter, and based on his stupidity (or worse), Cheney is going to get a torture-induced evidence measure through Congress today. All the media is talking about the McCain Amendment and the success of the anti-torture measure - it's a total illusion. Cheney has scored big time, and Carl Levin is the reason why. This man should be hounded from office.
