Anything re participant?

In brazil, returning monday.

Though gun-lobby is tired subject, see gail collins column today. Re congress' unwillingness to keep guns from terrorist watch list folks etc. Hilarious quote from Lindsay graham, "i'm into national security..." Etc.

If participant looking tough, i've got some ideas.

Let's talk early next week if that works for you.

Trying to figure out a schedule/travel arrangements.....Do you have specific meeting time[s] set up for Thursday at Participant? Also:

- Should you, Scott, and I meet together first?
- Any other folks we should meet with while I'm in LA? (You'd mentioned Scott had another prospect.)
- Any reason or advantage that I stay around thru Friday or weekend?
(I can stay as long as it's helpful to getting done what we need to do; maybe three of us should do some work over the weekend? Or Friday? Or better to just focus on Thursday and get everything done then, in which case I'd take red-eye back or leave Friday morning?)

Just saw the encomium below, in NYT review of new Dutch Leonard tv series, "Justified," which reminded me to announce that I'm back home in NY

I hear all the things you're saying—let's review and my guess is the right decision[s] will come out of the discussion. But time to get there. I'm at 212 744 5822 (home), and if not here the office (212 813 1147), which can always find me during the day. Let's set up a definite call.

before we speak, a few things have happened since we last met that you should be aware of.

first, the personal matter i spoke of is not going to resolve in a positive fashion, and at some point in the next month i am going to experience a very painful upheaval. second, warner bros has greenlit a large-scale project i've been developing about a global pandemic and we will begin shooting in september. third, and perhaps most relevant, having spent the first part of the current shoot in europe, i am convinced that the USA has completely jumped the shark and there is no hope of restoring it to anything like the best version of itself. this may be a normal response to being in barcelona, but it was a reminder that every project requires both faith and undivided attention, and i'm concerned about my ability to conjure either. but, we should talk anyway. i'm in a variety of meetings today and may not be about to talk before you get on your plane. are you going back to ny?

Subject: Watergate query

Dear Bob Woodward,

I'm still working away on one or two Watergate-related stories and have a few questions I would like to ask.

In THE SECRET MAN, pages 85-86, you took note of a Nixon/Haldeman conversation on 19 Oct 1972, during which Haldeman says "we know" who's been leaking to the Post . . . it's Mark Felt. The source of this information is identified as a "legal guy" at the Post.

On page 87, you go on to note that "This meant that we at the Post perhaps had our own Deep Throat problem . . ."

My first question is, when did you become aware of this Haldeman/Nixon conversation? I understand it was first released in November 1996, but did you somehow know about it before then? Or did you become aware of it circa November 1997 when Stanley Kutler's book on the Nixon tapes was published? Part of the Oct 19 conversation is reproduced in ABUSE OF POWER. Lastly, is it possible that you became aware of it after November 1996 but before Kutler's book came out? I understand that many Post and Newsweek reporters were working on transcripts of the tapes released in November 1996 and wrote stories about them prior to ABUSE OF POWER's 1997 publication.

You also write on page 87, "We never found out who might have been providing information from the Post . . ." That implies there was an effort to look into this alleged leak. If so, is there anything you can tell me about it? When did the effort occur, and how long did it last? Who conducted it?

Lastly, in 2005 Michael Dobbs wrote an article (attached) for the Post on Felt. He looked into the Haldeman/Nixon conversation and deduced that it was William G. Hundley . . . because Hundley was Sandy Smith's lawyer! I don't understand how that computes since in the Oct 19 conversation the source is identified as a "legal guy" at the Post. Can you shed any light on Dobbs's (mis)identification?

RE: STATUS UPDATE - BERNSTEIN PROPERTY
SITUATE 9 SALT MEADOW LANE, VILLAGE OF NORTH HAVEN
(SCTM#: 901-2-4-19)

Dear Mr. Bernstein,

Please consider this letter an update on the status of your proposed project. Our office has been in contact with Al Daniels, Chief Building Inspector at the Village of North Haven regarding the existing Certificates of Occupancy on the above-referenced property, as well as regarding the pending violation from July 15, 2004.

Mr. Daniels' office has provided us with copies of two (2) Certificates of Occupancy on the property; one for the existing one-story dwelling, attached garage, porch and covered entry, dated May 18, 2000 (CO#01-21), and one for the existing granite swimming pool, slate patio and enclosure fencing, dated June 15, 2001 (CO#02-05). Both of these certificates were issued in the prior owner's name, Mel & Nancy Nathanson.

It is evident from the most recent Certificates' survey by David Saskas, L.S. last dated November 20, 2001 that the existing stone walls and fencing as well as the associated localized clearing were approved as part of the project, even though they are partially located within the Conservation Easement.

Mr. Daniels has informed us that the July 15, 2004 violation of the Village Code cited for the construction of a retaining wall without a building permit or site plan approval still stands at this time and must be rectified. Additionally, Mr. Daniels informed us that as per Local Law No. 2 of the Village Code, as of 2004 it is necessary for all landowners to obtain a Certificate of Occupancy on their property in their own name.

This being said, we feel that it is necessary to have your survey revised to reflect the current state of the property in its entirety; specifically it should depict all stone retaining walls presently on the property, as the existing wall located on the seaward side of the residence is currently not shown and is the subject of the 2004 violation. Additionally, the revised survey should depict the proposed addition to the residence as well as any other proposed work on the property.

Upon receipt of the revised survey, a landscape plan can be finalized with Jim Grimes, Landscape Architect. At this point, our office will then be able to set up a meeting with Rich Warren the Village Environmental Consultant for preliminary approval of the
