4. REPORT:
   a. MOSSACK's Life up to WA-DAY
      1926 Born in GRUEB-ERIKA.
      1930-1933 Attended Volksschule.
      1933 Joined the Jungvolk.
      1936 Went to live with his uncle Manfred HIRNSCH in DRESDEN while attending a technical night school for apprentices and working as apprentice toolmaker with the Zeiss-Ikon Co. He later lived at the Company's apprentice home.
      1939 Became member of the Hitler-Jugend.
      1940 Returned to GRUEB-ERIKA and went to work in Ilse-Bergbau Co, where he passed his apprentice examination. Met Stabsoffizier HIRNSCH of BREISLAU who introduced him to HJ Gebietsfuehrer HIRNSCH, and for a few months MOSSACK was the latter's aide.
      August 1941 Appointed Kommissarischer (i.e., provisional) Bannfuhrer* of BREISLAU HJ.
      1942 Entered the Waffen SS in MUNCHEN and received Basic Training with the SS Art Ers Rgt located near there. Here he renewed his acquaintance with Dr Rudolf ARNDT, manager of the Ilse-Bergbau Co, who had previously taken an interest in his education. ARNDT introduced him to his relatives, the HUSSERL family, who owned a large farm, the Roemerhof, in GARCHING near MUNCHEN.

* This position was held only temporarily, in the absence of older men, and did not carry with it any real power. The highest rank MOSSACK ever actually held with the HJ was O/Schri, and he asserts that his statement to SOMEKING about being a leading personality in the HJ and being on a GIC wanted-list was untrue. He claims that the highest rank he held in the Waffen SS was Rottfi.
November 1942 Transferred to the Art Regt of the SS Div Totenkopf, with which he served first in France and later in Russia. 1943 After being wounded he was stationed in Czechoslovakia for a short time.
March 1944 Transferred to the SS Geb Div Nord and fought in Finland, later retreating to Norway. January 1945 Sent to the Western Front and captured by US Forces in March.

b. Activities after VE-Day

December 1945
Together with seven other Pows MOSSACK stole a truck and escaped from a PW camp near Le Havre. The fugitives were surprised by a French sentry near the German border, and while MOSSACK and two of his comrades, Fritz DENNIT and Peter STEINSACH, managed to escape, subject does not know what happened to the rest. He and his friends separated in COLOGNE, and there he made the acquaintance of Erika, who gave him the address of a girl friend, Frl Annemarie BUSSE, in FLENSBURG, and of her uncle, Karl SIEBER, living in GLADBACH near DUESSEN.

While in COLOGNE, MOSSACK paid a visit to Ida SIEBER, the wife of a fellow PW, and also to the PW's parents.

18 Dec 45 to 25 Feb 46
MOSSACK proceeded to GLADBACH near DUESSEN, where he obtained employment as a farm hand with SIEBER. There he received a temporary Registration Card. He began corresponding with his parents and with the HEDENPOHL family, from whom he received an invitation to visit them.

25 Feb 46
Subject traveled to the Roemershof in GARCHING near MUNCHEN to stay with Fr. H. HEDENPOHL (daughter of Ernst HEDENPOHL, who had committed suicide at the time of Germany's surrender).

1 Mar 46
At the Roemershof, subject met Kurt RITTMEISER, former Reichpropagandadreferent of the Hauptgeschulungssant of the NSDAP, and his wife Charlotte, a girl friend of Fr. HEDENPOHL, from whom MOSSACK had already met at the Roemershof in 1942. RITTMEISER informed subject that the KPD (German Communist Party) sheltered former Nazis who were of value to them, and that he was prepared to join this party in case he became suspect to GSG. He insisted, however, that he was opposed to Communism and that he would not hesitate to inform against the KPD at the opportune moment. He also told subject that he maintained contact with this party through a certain Karl Heinms (Int), whom MOSSACK never met, however.

Subject in turn told RITTMEISER the following largely fictitious story in order to impress him: He said that he had connections with the Swiss Communist Party through a certain Alois SALMANN, a former Swiss SS man whom he had met in the PW Enclosure in CHER-BOURG. SALMANN, he claimed, had given him the address of a Fred HUGGENS in ZURICH, who held an important position in the Communist Party. RITTMEISER thereupon suggested that subject enlist the aid of the KPD to get into Switzerland.
SECRET

4 to 15 Mar 46

Subject and Maja MUNDDORF left GARCHING for a vacation at a ski-lodge about 40 miles from there, the Blechsteinehaus near SCHLEIFENSEE.

18 Mar 46

Upon his return, subject learned from Charlotte RITTERSBERG that her husband had left for the Russian Zone or possibly for FRIBURG, in the French Zone. At the same time, subject received a letter from Erna van KOELWIJK asking him to come to ANDERBACH on the Rhine for her birthday party at the end of the month. He accepted the invitation since he still had several matters to settle, including changing his address from GLADBACH to MUNICH and securing a certificate of discharge from the Wehrmacht from the British 9th Disembarkment Unit in AACHEN.

21 Mar 46

Subject left for the Rhineland. He first spent three days in ANDERBACH, and then proceeded to IDAR-OBERSTEIN near COLOGNE, where he visited Frau Gertrud LORENS, wife of a former fellow prisoner who was still interned in MULHOUSE (Alsace). He also called on another former FV, Karl RUCHER, with whom he stayed for several days.

23 March

Subject traveled to GLADBACH where he lived with a man called NAGEN, who had worked together with subject on SIEBER's farm. Here he met the former Major Dietrich BOSSHEL of BONN, who invited NOBBACK to stay with him. Subject therefore proceeded to BONN, where he received his discharge papers and also met a friend of ROBBEL, the former Captain Gerhard EHRNREICH, who gave him 100 marks since his funds were low.

5 April

Subject went to GLADBACH to pick up his belongings, then returned BONN, and finally to GARCHING, where he registered, since he intended to remain on the Roehrhorf.

c. Association with Underground Organizations

In subject's absence, a certain Jan DENTON, a Dutchman and former SS Schrif, whose wife had worked on the farm during the War, came to the Roehrhorf to find out from Maja MUNDDORF whether she knew of any former SS men in the MUNICH area who were interested in forming a new organization. He left his MAINZEN address, saying that any former SS men was welcome at his home.

About 1 May a certain KHEININGER happened to come to the Roehrhorf, and he too attempted to enroll NOBBACK in an underground organization, in which he claimed to hold a key position. He stated that he had formerly held a high position in the NSDAP, and he sharply criticized the US occupation policy. He said he was working against the Western Powers, and therefore his organization maintained close contact with the ERP and various other groups sponsored by the Soviet Government. He claimed that he received his orders indirectly from Marshall NIKOLAEV, and that while these groups were instructed to penetrate peacefully into the Western Occupation Zones, force would eventually be used if necessary.

* LORENS was a diamond cutter, but subject states that there is no truth in the story he later told SCHERING, viz, that LORENS had promised to pay him in diamonds for helping him to escape.
The chief of the organization spent most of his time travelling between France and Switzerland, and operational HQ were in the French Zone, either in Fribourg or Bâle. Many former SS men belonged to the group, together with Dutch, Swiss and Hungarian nationals; and new members were sent to Berlin to be trained and to receive their assignments at a center organized and financed by the Soviet Government. STEINFELD himself was touring Germany disguised as a travelling salesman, making contacts and building up his network of agents and informers.

STEINFELD further stated that there was another group, at present collaborating with Soviet sponsored groups, but whose ultimate aim was to set up Fascist rule in Europe once more. This group allegedly worked in the guise of a religious organization with HQ in Liverpool, and had the support of a number of Czech refugees who had left their country in 1935.

Although STEINFELD offered MOSSACK every kind of support if he agreed to join his organization, the latter only promised to think it over, and STEINFELD told him that he or one of his agents would get in touch with him again, making himself known by the password "Friedrich der Große".*

The prisoner now claims that he intended to join this organization only with the ultimate intention of turning over all information to CIC, and that his later attempts to contact his agents in Fribourg had this sole purpose.

At about this same time MOSSACK met Frau Friederike WITTEBREIT and Mr. Hildegard SCHOTT at the Cafe Regina in Munich, and the former mentioned certain underground organizations to him. Her husband had held a position with the Hauptgeschäftsführer of the NSDAP in Berlin, and the subject suspects him of being active in clandestine work at the present time. Frau WITTEBREIT, who lived in Fribourg, was staying at Mr. SCHOTT's house in Munich.

Early in May three employees at the Boomerang, BADER, NAPOLI and KROC, stated their intention of denouncing MOSSACK as a former SS man, and he therefore decided to leave Garching. He states that he intended to enter one of the German underground organizations in order to turn over the information gained to CIC. His alleged purpose in doing this was to clear himself with the Allied authorities for having escaped from his POW camp.

Through Frau WITTEBREIT, subject had the opportunity of meeting her husband and a certain Werner ARNOLD at the main Railroad Station in Fribourg on 5 May. MOSSACK gave WITTEBREIT WERNER's address in Fribourg and also informed her about his meeting with STEINFELD, whom WITTEBREIT claimed not to know. Finally he requested his aid in the matter of finding a new place to stay, and WITTEBREIT promised to try to make arrangements for him before the middle of May. He then had a short private conversation with ARNOLD, after which ARNOLD returned to Munich with MOSSACK.

* In his preliminary interrogation by CIC subject stated that on 22 May he received a letter from STEINFELD containing the address of a certain URB, to whom he could turn in case he needed this statement was untrue and was simply calumny, from whom he had actually received the ** ARNOLD was a Swiss national who had come to the Waffen SS and joined the 3rd Jäger Btr. and seen action around Berlin. He too had never r of the fact he was working as a locksmith in

On the 7 May, subject left the Roemerhof and registered with the authorities his intention to go to GRUBEHAFER. Instead, however, he spent two days with friends of the HUMBEFOLS, the WENDT family in MUNICH, and then moved to GRUBEHAFER to stay with ARNOLO.

On 10 May MOSSACK and Maja HUMBEFOL went to RESSENBURG to visit a friend of Maja's, Fr. Constantius RHEUB, with whom they stayed for three days. On 15 May, after returning to MUNICH, they both went up to the HUMBEFOL house for three days, and on 21 May MOSSACK went alone to visit the mother of an Estonian fellow from, Frau Lydie PHILLIPS, who was living at an UBERBA Camp in GIESLINGEN near ULM.

Next day, on his return to MUNICH, MOSSACK met Maja at the Cafe Leopold, and she told him that in his absence a stranger named SOKERLING, who claimed to be an emissary from BORSE, had come to the Roemerhof. He stated that they had formed a small clandestine group and were seeking to become part of a larger organization. He himself was working as interpreter for CI, he said, and a fellow worker, a former SS Stubaf, was supplying him with the papers he needed and with a motorcycle.

a. MOSSACK's Contact with SOKERLING*

Maja had arranged for MOSSACK and SOKERLING to meet at the Central Railroad station in MUNICH at 1600 on 22 May, and all three of them drove out to GRUBEHAFER on SOKERLING's motorcycle with sidecar. On the way, SOKERLING told MOSSACK that he had been an O/Schut in the SS Div Viking, a statement which he substantiated by correctly naming several officers of the unit. (According to MOSSACK, SOKERLING's knowledge of the Waffen SS and the conditions encountered on the Eastern Front was so accurate that it could only come from an eyewitness.)

* Because of the many discrepancies in MOSSACK's and SOKERLING's reports about what happened on 22 and 23 May, MOSSACK's account is here reproduced at length, and SOKERLING's statements insofar as they conflict with this account are quoted in Annex I.

 In the course of their acquainst, SOKERLING told MOSSACK the following facts about himself: He was born inolland and joined the Dutch Navy as Officer Cadet. After being commissioned in the Dutch East Indies and having shown too much interest in the cause of the natives he was dismissed for untrustworthiness and returned toolland just before the War. Following the German occupation he joined the Waffen SS. After his first wife had died in a boat accident, he married a girl he had met when making a propaganda trip througholland for the SS. His wife returned to Germany with him where she attended a SS Freicuta-Schule (School for Finances), and they have two children.

SOKERLING fought first in Holland and later with the III Panzer Corps in Yugoslavia, and he took part in the final stages of the fighting in Southern Germany. After that he went to his wife's residence in HOLZINGEN near MUNICH, and after changing into civilian clothes he reported to the US Forces as a DP. When he was recognized by former acquaintances at a DP Camp, he offered his services to CI in order to cover himself; he fooled the latter by stating that he had merely joined the SS in order to get released from a Nazi Concentration Camp and that he had deserted at the first opportunity.
At 1630 hrs they stopped in GEISLACHTSTRIG for twenty minutes while MOSSACK and Naja went to see Frau RITTMÜGER because MOSSACK wished to get into touch with her husband; he here received two addresses in FREIBURG, at either of which RITTMÜGER was likely to be.* When MOSSACK and Naja had rejoined SÖCHERLING, they all proceeded to the Café Fischer in GRUSWALD, and here SÖCHERLING, upon request from MOSSACK, showed his identification papers.

SÖCHERLING outlined to MOSSACK his plans for incorporating his group in a larger underground organization, and MOSSACK then revealed his intention of joining RITTMÜGER's organization in FREIBURG — without mentioning, however, that he intended to act as an informant for CIC. SÖCHERLING and MOSSACK decided to go to OFFENBACH, where SÖCHERLING, through the offices of a friend, was to procure a travel permit to the French Zone for his companion, and from there they were to proceed to MAINZ to meet DE KORT; after that they planned to get in touch with RITTMÜGER's organization in FREIBURG. MOSSACK also told SÖCHERLING that he intended to visit a relative of RITTMÜGER, a PV working for a forester in OFFENBACH near FREIBURG, in order to establish contact between the PV and his family.

Before leaving the café, MOSSACK introduced ARNOLD, who was there too, to SÖCHERLING and all three went to ARNOLD's apartment, where MOSSACK packed his belongings and put on black trousers and boots. MOSSACK and SÖCHERLING then returned to the café to pick up Naja, and while his companions went on to FREIBURG, MOSSACK stopped in SCHÖNING to see FrL SCHÖN about storing furniture for Frau RITTMÜGER. A few minutes later (according to MOSSACK, only fifteen minutes had elapsed since they had returned to the café) SÖCHERLING returned alone to pick up MOSSACK, and after SÖCHERLING had unsuccessfully attempted to obtain gasoline at MP 49, they proceeded in the direction of GEISLAGHTSTRIG and had supper at the Café zur Post, between 2000 hrs and 2100 hrs. After that they called on Frau RITTMÜGER in GEISLAGHTSTRIG to tell her about MOSSACK’s visit to FrL SCHÖN, and there they were introduced to FrL Pfinning TOPPER, who was living with Frau RITTMÜGER.

At 2130 hrs MOSSACK and SÖCHERLING left for the Roemorhof, where they arrived half an hour later. MOSSACK entered through the back door in order not to be seen, and he did not leave Naja's room until 0430 hrs, while SÖCHERLING slept in the dining room.

At 0415 hrs on June 23, MOSSACK and SÖCHERLING left on the latter’s motorcycle and took the KOBLOCH-FRIESEN Autobahn as far as INGOLSTADT. There they received gasoline from the MG gas station, and stopped for breakfast for half an hour. MOSSACK claims that at this time he saw his companion destroy a slip of paper containing the address of a former Concentration Camp guard.

At 1600 hrs that afternoon, they entered a small village not far from STEINHEIM/FRAUEN, where SÖCHERLING wished to call upon a friend. He was absent, however, and they saw only his wife and a young girl whom SÖCHERLING introduced as an US Stalag in whose stay he had arranged to do DE KORT a favor. At 1630 hrs they left, and a little later SÖCHERLING phoned a friend in OFFENBACH/Main from a post office near a service station where they went to have a tire repaired. At 1730 hrs they arrived at SÖCHERLING’s home in STEINHEIM, where MOSSACK met his companion’s wife and children.

* See footnote on page 6.

 The papers produced by SÖCHERLING included a Dutch Passport, a US gasoline ration Card, a Driver's License, a Vehicle Permit and a Registration Card.
The latter, who spoke perfect German, greeted MOSSACK with "Heil Hitler", and Fred SÖHRELING told of her experiences at the SS School for Fiancées. In the course of the conversation, she complained about the fact that all the furniture they had stored in HÜLSENGERT, had been stolen. She then told her husband that in his absence two Dutchmen had called, whom she had told that her husband had been arrested. This pleased SÖHRELING, since it rid him of unwelcome callers.

Half an hour later SÖHRELING and MOSSACK left STEINHEIN for OFFENBACH, where SÖHRELING's friend who worked for IG was supposed to provide a travel permit to the French Zone for MOSSACK. However, this man had already left his office and SÖHRELING only made a telephone call and paid a short visit to CIC before returning to STEINHEIN. On the way, SÖHRELING pointed out to his companions three houses, and he claimed that in one he had tires and spare parts, hidden, in another an assistant translated documents for him and in the third he had a short wave radio station. They arrived back at SÖHRELING's home at 18:50 hrs, and after supper, MOSSACK, who now claims that SÖHRELING drugged his coffee, went to sleep after his host had informed him that he was expecting a visit from a friend who worked for CIC. At 22:00 hrs MOSSACK was awakened by a CIC agent and taken to jail.

5. CONCLUSIONS:

MOSSACK has had a very extensive, but superficial political education and is thoroughly indoctrinated with Nazi ideology. A typical IG leader, he still lives in his world of Nazi slogans and is a striking example of German youth under HITLER.

According to his own statements, he was about to join a clandestine organization, either of former Nazis now turned Communist (STEINHEIN) or of unconverted Nazis cloaking themselves as Communists (RITTMOND). His alleged motive in doing this — to win the good graces of the US authorities by acting as an informant for CIC — is open to question and may well simply constitute a shrewd attempt to get out of an awkward situation.

6. CONTENTS AND RECOMMENDATIONS:

Interrogation has been suspended until a brief is submitted by Hq CIC regarding the many discrepancies between the interrogation results and the Action Reports of SÖHRELING.

It is recommended that CIC continue the field investigation of the clandestine organizations and of the suspects mentioned in this report, in particular of RITTMOND, STEINHEIN, Reza WEFERHAUS and all activities at the Roemerhof.

Should there still be any doubt as to the identity and past history of MOSSACK, then the following persons could be questioned:

BARTSCHNA, Erich, Uffz, DACHAU Prison Camp (brother-in-law) ARENDT, Rudolf, Dr Ing, HAMBURG Internment Camp ARENDT, Frau Rea, Steininger Hof, GARCHING (MUNICH) BIELENF, Frl. Annibale, Steininger Hof, Garching (MUNICH) (Maid of the ARENDTs) RAASCH, fnu, HAMBURG, exact address known to Frau ARENDT (Director of Ilao Bergbau Co)

CONFLICTING STATEMENTS OF MOSSACK AND SOMMERLING.

SOMMERLING’s first Action Report on Operation Peter, dd 24 May 46, gives a rather confusing account of the events leading up to MOSSACK’s arrest, an account differing in almost every detail from the story told by MOSSACK. It is impossible to check on the accuracy of either account without first obtaining an answer from SOMMERLING regarding some of the flagrant improbabilities and contradictions in his report.

In the first place it will be necessary to question SOMMERLING about his account of his and MOSSACK’s trip to the Vandicstein Mountains on the night of 22 May, a trip of about 200 km, which were supposedly covered in less than four hours, and which MOSSACK denies ever having made.

MOSSACK also categorically denies knowing anything about the alleged plan to liberate inmates of the BARENHAUSEN prison camp, and he claims to know neither a Hauptmann DOOPER nor a man named PIEHS.

MOSSACK does indeed mention a former fellow PW called LORENZ (see p 5 and footnote) and also a PW working for a forester near OFFENBURG (see p 3) but these statements reappear in an entirely different form in SOMMERLING’s report.

SOMMERLING’s claim to have been parachuted in Germany by the British Intelligence (see enclosure on Operation Peter accompanying letter of transmission by GIC) does not fit any of the conditions reportedly encountered by MOSSACK when he visited SOMMERLING’s home in STEINHEIM on May 23 (see p 5).
