Fort Huachuca Schools & Courses

Military Intelligence Schools and Training Courses
Fort Huachuca is the primary Military Intelligence (MI) installation for Army training of soldiers, non-commissioned officers, warrant officers, and officers within the MI Corps. The Army post trains tens of thousands of soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines on an annual basis as one of the major Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC) installations in the United States. Each course may have their own lodging recommendations on or off post in Sierra Vista. Some of the courses offered on Fort Huachuca are a PCS Move (Permanent Change of Station), and some of them are a TDY (Temporary Duty Assignment).

TDY Assignment or PCS Re-assignment?

PCS Moves authorize Basic Housing Allowance (BAH) and some moving allowances and PCS moves generally last 1-3 years. TDY assignments are generally less than 6 months, and authorize per diem for lodging and meals in addition to BAH for the home station (TDY is a much more advantageous assignment status to have because it authorizes the traveler a higher amount of travel funds for temporary lodging in addition for the allowance to pay for housing at the home station). Military orders should state the assignment status.

Fort Huachuca Schools and Military Intelligence Courses

The Military Intelligence Army post is the largest training center for MI service members in the entire United States. It’s somewhat remote location and open training area make it a useful training area for all intelligence and signal disciplines, as well as the UAV training center located on the West end of Fort
